The United Nations Truce Supervision Organization (UNTSO) operates eleven (11) Observation Positions (OPs) in the area of separation between Syria and Israel, five (5) on the Syrian controlled area and six (6) on the Israeli controlled areas. Currently observation and monitoring of the area is undertaken with fixed and handheld optical binoculars. UNTSO plans to modernize and upgrade the current practices by employing EOS cameras (electrical optical system) and associated software with intelligence to scan and detect changes in the area of observation. UNTSO intends to establish a long-term contract covering provision of the equipment and services outfitting all eleven (11) observation positions, with immediate implementation of part of the project covering five (5) observation positions in the Syrian controlled area, which is subject to permission from the Syrian Authorities.

The equipment needed for the remaining six (6) observation positions will be ordered "as and when required" during the first three (3) years of the contract

SPECIFIC REQUIREMENTS / INFORMATION (IF ANY)

Types of Goods and Services (detailed description):

Independent stand-alone (LAN only) PTZ (pan/tilt/zoom) dual day/night camera system enabling visibility and identification of objects

System should include a regular optical camera for daytime viewing plus a thermal camera for low light/night-time viewing to be installed on a 3m pole at the top of the Observation Platform. Operating system software should be integrated with geographic and topographic data of the area to enable intelligent capabilities of detecting, recognizing, and identifying humans and vehicles and assessment of distances. The cameras should be housed in waterproof enclosures with associated wiper/cleaning system for harsh conditions of snow and dust storms (laser range finders are not to be included).

The system should include camera command and control stations with large monitors for viewing, video recording server (NVR) to record footage, store recordings and run associated software to operate.

Company is to provide pre-installation support and training in English (virtual) for up to 10 technicians to ensure that equipment can be successfully installed and made fully operational.

Following installation, the Company is to provide user training in English (virtual) for 5-10 users to familiarize users with the equipment and the related software and ensure that they are able to utilize features for observation and recognition (day and night) and sweep and zoom-in as required. Users should be able to recognize and act on system alerts.
